A brilliant sky, a delighted throng, a complete success, tell the story of the annual Floral Parade today.

The birthday of George Washington was celebrated by Honolulu folk this morning, in a manner that would have seemed strange to the people of the Original Thirteen Colonies.

Flowers and bright scenes every where marked the parade and showed a happy combination of modern achievement with the customs of Hawaiian days of long ago.

The division of the automobile and the pa-u riders was one of the most striking features a combination that was especially interesting to the visitors from abroad.

Despite the fact that the parade this year was not, in some of its features, equal to the preceding celebration, the large crowds that thronged the streets and watched the display were delighted with the general effect of the affair and only words of commendation were heard.

The divisions in the parade were good. The automobile division was naturally the most striking feature for the opportunity of showing originality and beauty of decoration, were greater than any other division afforded. There were fewer automobiles in the column this year, but the decorations were in every respect, as beautiful while the runabout section was, if anything, better than that shown in the previous affair.

THE PA-U RIDERS

The carriages of various descriptions were limited this year, but some of them were very pretty.

Only one float that by the Kilohana Art League, was in the parade, and the fire department was also absent.

But the single float of the Art League, showing a Grecian Temple in which were young women representing the various forms of art, was the most artistic thing of the kind that has ever been shown here.

The float was applauded throughout the line of the procession.

THE ISLAND PRINCESSES

There was a most striking array of pa-u riders. Frank Andrade led this division and immediately following him were the Princess Theresa Wilcox, Mrs. Puahi and Marie Beckley, the three recognized leaders in pa-u matters in the islands. Behind them came an imposing cavalcade of the riders. The women rode well and handled their horses, with much skill. At intervals, during the parade this division galloped, which showed the flowing pa-us, makes a very effective feature of the display.

The majority of the pa-u riders wore the royal yellow color of pa-u.

A new feature this year were the princesses. It was in this division that the most elegant horses were shown.

The prize Cornwell bay stallion from the Cornwell ranch was ridden by Miss Kitty Cornwell, who represented the island of Maui.

Miss Cornwell was given a splendid opportunity to display her horsemanship, for her steed seemed to catch the spirit of the occasion and was one of the prettiest animals in the entire parade.

Mrs. Malina, the Kauai representative also showed much skill in managing the fine Arab charger that she rode. She aroused much admiration.

The horse she rode belongs to Representative C. A. Rice and was white with calico spots. She wore a brilliant red pa-u with the favored white floral design.

Miss Alice Bartholomew as the Molokai princess, wore white and green costume, with flowing green pa-u. She wore a garland of white flowers.

She was much admired, for her costume was very striking. Miss Gussie Clark mounted on a magnificent coal black horse was the Oahu princess. She wore yellow and black, with ilima leis.

Her pa-u costume was yellow. She received much applause.

Miss Anna Rose, who was Hawaii's Queen at the Omaha Exposition, was Hawaii's princess today.

She wore a red pa-u, with black hat and cape. She carried herself in a regal way and rode her bay charger in fine style.

With the exception of Miss Cornwell, all of the princesses wore long pa-us. Miss Cornwell also wore a becoming continental hat with a cockade, at the side. All of the princesses were accompanied by heralds mounted on ponies or smaller horses.

There were no princesses from the islands of Lanai or Nihoa.

Following regular pa-u division of which the small riders were a pretty feature, came the miscellaneous riders under the direction of Harold Dillingham.

This division was, in many ways better than the miscellaneous riders of the previous parade. Although the numerous characters were missing.

Somebody missed a fine opportunity to enter the "Water Wagon." Probably nobody could be found, just at present, to consent to remain long enough on the conveyance, to ride from the Capitol grounds to the base ball park.

COWBOYS AND ROUGH RIDERS

Following regular pa-u division of which the small riders were a pretty feature, came the miscellaneous riders under the direction of Harold Dillingham.

This division was, in many ways better than the miscellaneous riders of the previous parade. Although the numerous characters were missing.

Somebody missed a fine opportunity to enter the "Water Wagon." Probably nobody could be found, just at present, to consent to remain long enough on the conveyance, to ride from the Capitol grounds to the base ball park.

THE BICYCLE RIDERS

The bicycle division was small but there were some amusing characters and several original designs.

Last year the Japanese automobile entry was one of the most handsome and richest of the decorated cars, but this year had it not been for Governor Carter's act in placing his machine at the disposal of the visiting Japanese squadron, there would have been no representative of Japan in the parade.

However the Japanese availed themselves of the opportunity.

World's Greatest Fotografer

JAMES RICALTON WHO HAS CAUGHT WONDERFUL SCENES THE EARTH OVER, IS HERE.

Aboard the Alameda which this morning arrived from San Francisco is James Ricalton, the most celebrated war photographer in the world. He represents Underwood & Underwood of New York and has photographed bloody scenes in the Boxer troubles in China, the Boer War, the war in the Philippines, the Japanese-Russian war and elsewhere and otherwise. He will stop over here some little time to take scenes of the volcanoes on Hawaii and came in with the hope that the lava flows of Mauna Loa on Hawaii would still be in action. It seems that he will have to be content with the mild eruptions of Kilauea. From Honolulu he will go to Australia, New Zealand and perhaps, around the world.

One of his first photographs here will be the floral parade. As soon as he arrived and heard that there was a great floral parade for which Hawaii is becoming famous, he hustled up town with his camera, determined to get some of the pictures of this unique celebration. Through with the floral parade he will take pictures of the Japanese squadron now in port and will then devote himself to Volcano scenes.

Ricalton is one of the world's obscure great men. He has gone through a long life, with his nose to his work.

Alameda Enters In Full Dress

MAKES GOOD TIME FROM COAST. HOME-RETURNERS — CAPTAIN NOTIFIED NOT TO TAKE JAPS.

In splendid time, 5 days and 20 hours the O. S. S. Alameda, Captain Dowdell, arrived from San Francisco this morning, docking at the Oceanic wharf at 10 o'clock. She entered the harbor dressed in all her colors in honor of Washington's birthday.

The Alameda brings 1615 tons of general merchandise for Honolulu. She enjoyed both going up and coming down, the smoothest weather of her experience.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Cathcart returned home. County Attorney Cathcart has been away attending to important legal matters in Washington. A. W. Eames is one of the arriving; he recently lost his wife in California. Assistant Superintendent of the local cable office, F. Harwood, who went up in the S. S. Enterprise for his health, returned and is much better. Miss McGregor of Ehlers millinery establishment like a dog on a scent, needless of fame and money. He is original, alone, and has done things no other man has done. It was he that Thomas A. Edison sent into all the tropical jungles twenty years ago to search for a vegetable fiber for the electric lamp. He took most of the photographs for John L. Stoddard's lectures. He was the first foreigner to walk through northern Russia, 1,500 miles from Archangel to

SQUADRON ANSWERS SALUTE TO NATION

JAPANESE VESSELS BEAUTIFULLY DECORATED IN HONOR OF WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY.

Simultaneous with the tooting of the three time whistles at 5 o'clock this morning the ensign of the United States went to the top of the flagstaff in the grounds of the naval station. A gun was fired, and the official observance of Washington's birthday got its start. The three vessels of the Japanese squadron, lying at the naval station wharves, full-dressed ship, making a brave show of colors. The flagship Itsukushima, lying in the middle, was particularly grand in de-

THE HOUSE MET IN INFORMAL SESSION

OTHERWISE IT WOULD HAVE SACRIFICED ONE OF THE SIXTY DAYS OF THE SESSION.

The House of Representatives met this morning to commemorate the natal day of George Washington, the first president of the United States.

Being unwilling to sacrifice one of the sixty days, Speaker Holstein declined to take the chair and the meeting took informal nature.

Representatives Hughes and Kaniba were called upon to speak on appropriate subjects which they did at some length. Each speaker dwelt at some length upon the character and works of "the father of his country," and were heartily applauded by the House.

None of the proceedings of the day appear upon the records and the clerk was instructed to amend the minutes making the adjournment taken yesterday read 9 o'clock Saturday morning. There was no session of the Senate.

LAUKEA REVIEWS POLICE FORCES

ENTIRE DEPARTMENT TURNS OUT TO MAINTAIN ORDER IN THE PARADE AND BIG CROWDS.

"All hands on deck" was the cry at the police station this morning, for the great holiday floral parade called for all the men the retrenched police department could produce.

At 8:30 o'clock Sheriff Laukea stood on the front steps of the police station, like the statue of Washington, whose birthday it is today, stands on the steps of the sub-treasury on Wall street, New York, and reviewed the mounted peace-preserving forces of this county. There were six men, not counting Captain of Police Parker. They formed and maneuvered, rode by and saluted and then dashed off to take charge of the parade.

All the foot police, about thirty men, including every watch, were turned out to maintain order.

It was an impressive sight.
